At Hellmuth & Johnson, we have an extraordinary team of class action attorneys in Minneapolis who are deeply knowledgeable and experienced in this complex area of law. Our legal team has handled class and multiparty litigation at the state, national and international levels, through trial and appeal. They take a strategic and aggressive approach to each case, and have successfully led class and collective actions across a broad range of industries, including:

- Financial services
- Food and agriculture
- Healthcare
- Medical device
- Insurance
- Technology
- Pharmaceutical
- Transportation
- Manufacturing
- Sports and entertainment

Hellmuth & Johnson's class action, mass tort, and multidistrict litigation lawyers have strong relationships and resources both nationally and internationally that help them best handle your case, from inception to trial to settlement. Our team is experienced in antitrust, consumer protection, cybersecurity, employment, intellectual property, insurance, products liability, privacy, regulatory, securities, and environmental legal issues. Whether pursuing or defending claims, we understand how to leverage our substantial trial experience to obtain a successful outcome.
