

OVERVIEW

Farm operations and agriculture-related businesses face the same challenges as any other business, and then some. Agriculture is a highly-regulated industry, so knowledgeable, experienced legal advice is critical to the farmers and ranchers. Hellmuth & Johnson's team of farm and agricultural attorneys in Minneapolis has the depth and breadth of knowledge that farmers, farm families, and farm businesses need. Whatever your situation – a lease, a lawsuit, zoning, or succession planning – our team is here for you.

Our agriculture lawyers are your Minnesota legal resource. Leveraging years of experience in business and our extensive knowledge of the farming industry, we are here to help you manage risks and capitalize on opportunities. The deep bench on our legal team can handle estate planning and asset management, real estate law, financing and project issues, along with litigation and dispute resolution. You'll be glad to have an experienced farm lawyer on your side to help with your unique needs.
