

OVERVIEW

We are our clients' best insurance. Our team brings detailed, up-to-date legal knowledge, unwavering and aggressive pursuit of clients' goals and the combination of creativity and practicality to every case. These factors drive our insurance defense lawyers to succeed in matters of insurance law and litigation.

Individuals, businesses, property owners and insurance companies alike engage Hellmuth & Johnson to defend first-party and third-party claims, both in state and federal court and in alternative dispute resolution proceedings. Our insurance litigation attorneys in Minneapolis also have extensive experience in defending clients against insurance bad-faith claims. Moreover, the chair of our insurance litigation practice group, KC Ahrens, regularly speaks at continuing legal education seminars and addresses industry groups on topics related to insurance defense, in particular auto insurance issues.

In all cases, our attorneys report regularly to clients regarding the status of their matters, anticipating their needs and responding quickly to inquiries about pending developments, as well as our strategies and tactics in representing them.
